□ Course Information

Course Description	Entrepreneurship is the most popular trend in business worldwide from US, Europe to Asia and Africa. From the view of a person who is interested in setting up a new business, we explore how to find business problems and the products and services to solve these for a new enterprise. After taking this course, students will be able to think about problem solving methods to attack business problems and find solutions. Also, they are expected to regard entrepreneurship as a new way of living for everyone regardless of being salaried workers or entrepreneurs in the future. Especially, we explore this issue in the context of businesses in Asia where more than the half of world populations are living and which will be the center of world economy in the near future. For this purpose, lecture, discussion and two field trips will be included in the course.
Course Evaluation	Class participation 20% Team Assignment 1: Hands on Discussion Presentation 20% Team Assignment 2: Team Project 20% Final exam (Open book exam) 40% For class participation, good attendance and active participation will be reflected in grade.
Course Materials	Entrepreneurship , William D. Bygrave, Andrew Zacharakis, 3rd Edition (Global Edition), 2014, Wiley (Available at SNU Bookstore) + Hand-outs and Lecture slides will be provided in class.
Etc.	Please be advised that questions for the final exam will be based on lecture given in class, not text book.

□ Team Assignments (More Detailed Explanation)

Team Assignment 1: ‘Hands on’ Discussion Presentation (20%)

Students will be assigned to a team with 3 or 4 members. Then your team will be asked to lead one ‘Hands on’ discussion with the ‘Hands on’ section provided in each chapter of your text book. These are the practical tips when we think about real start-ups. After a team assigned to the presentation briefly talk about the tips in 10 minutes, we will share ideas and experiences about what we should think about if we start our businesses by ourselves.

Team Assignment 2: Team Project (20%)

Each team is required to pick a new business model for a new enterprise and suggest a start-up funding plan which can be presented to venture capitalists. A proposal framework will be provided and the team will be required to present in 15 minutes as if they ask for funding in front of venture capitalists.

Contents of the project report and presentation include:

- * Industry Analysis – Market conditions such as market size, prospects for a new enterprise
- * Description of current business problems for possible customers
- * Suggest new products or services and justify why these will be successful
